Provincial health plans cover less than you think

*Alison Naimool
Product Manager – Manulife Financial*

The days when an employee remained with one company for a career span of 25-30 years are long gone. Self-employment is on the rise[†]. As a result, the loss of health benefits that corporations provide for employees and their families is leaving many Canadians without enough health and dental protection.

Most people assume they are covered sufficiently under their provincial health plan. What they don't realize is that provincial health plans cover less than they may think. To ensure your health and dental needs are covered, consider the Alumni Extended Health and Dental Plan.

Dental care, prescription drugs*, alternative therapies (massage therapy, chiropractors, naturopaths, etc.) and vision benefits – these health care items and services are essential for the well-being of your family. Unfortunately, they are not covered under provincial health plans.

The Alumni Extended Health and Dental Plan features a variety of options to fit all needs and budgets. The value-added ManuAssist[™], a 24-hour emergency travel assistance program, is included at no additional cost to you. ■

[†] As of January 2005, there were 2.47 million self-employed Canadians out of a total of 16.057 million in the labour force. There was also a 1.6% increase in self-employment from January 2004 to January 2005. Source: Statistics Canada's Labour Force Survey, February 2005.

At the Office of the UNB Associated Alumni, we care about your privacy and take the matter very seriously. We recognize that our alumni are concerned about the information we maintain and how that information is used. As the basis for our own policy, we follow Canada's Personal Information Protection and Electronic Documents Act (PIPEDA).

Homecoming a baptism for new president

It is with a great deal of pleasure that I greet you as the new President of the UNB Associated Alumni. (For those who attended the Saint John campus, yes, I am the tall skinny guy with the English accent who taught chemistry for many, many years.) I am honored by the appointment, and I approach the next two years with a sense of excitement and enthusiasm as I do my best to meet your aspirations as reflected in the recent survey conducted by your association (See page 19).

After less than a month in office, I had my baptism at Homecoming 2005 on the Fredericton campus. I am sure those who attended will agree it was a truly great event that went off very smoothly. For me it was a wonderful opportunity to not only renew old friendships, but to forge new ones with alumni from across the country and beyond. The volunteer Homecoming Committee, led by Mary Ellen McKinney, did a tremendous amount of work to ensure the success of the event, as did our always dedicated staff from the alumni office, led by Mark Hazlett and Kathy Mac Farlane. A big job well done.

The enthusiasm and pride exhibited by those who attended were impressive. It is interesting to note that those who were celebrating their 50th-year reunion attended an institution housed on one campus with an enrolment of approximately 850. Today, we have thriving campuses in both Fredericton and Saint John, with enrolments of approximately 8,500 and 3,000 respectively. Research programs flourish on both campuses, and faculty and students have recorded some remarkable accomplishments. In addition, there are satellite campuses scattered around the world. We indeed have much of which we can be proud.

As you know, the Associated Alumni has an impressive and detailed strategic plan, which I encourage you to view on the web. With its network of more than 59,000 alumni, the association offers contacts in many communities as you move around the country or the world. These contacts can be useful as you move into a new setting, or need advice on career moves, for example. The association is there to enable you to support your university in a variety of ways as it strives, under the leadership of President Dr. John McLaughlin, himself a proud alumnus, to be the very best. This support can take many forms. Financial support is the obvious one, but volunteers, particularly recent graduates, also help with student recruitment, others with advocacy and advice. I encourage you not only to take advantage of the services the association offers, but, in turn, to join many other volunteers by offering your services to your association.

In closing, I wish to thank Carey Ryan, our past president, who has done an outstanding job over the past two years. We should all be pleased that we will still enjoy Carey's grace and enthusiasm in other roles.

I look forward to meeting many of you at various locations in New Brunswick, Canada, and beyond. Stay proud and stay connected!

Hey, Ron, I did bring the jacket — I just couldn't find you!

In this space in the spring edition, I reflected on the pleasures of renewing old acquaintances, casual or otherwise, at reunions, and said I hoped I'd have the experience in July at Homecoming 2005.

I'm pleased to report I did, though it wasn't without its pitfalls, the main one being how hard it can be to find someone when there are hundreds of people milling about.

In the Big Tent Thursday evening, I was chatting with someone — let's just say, to protect his anonymity, his name is "Curt" — I hadn't seen in a long time. As we were gabbing away, the guy who had been standing with "Curt" was just kind of grinning at me, and during a break in the conversation finally said to me: "Do you know who I am?" After a good long stare I was able to put it together — it was someone I hadn't seen in more than 30 years. (I'll refer to him as "Ron," again for the sake of anonymity.)

Then ensued a great, though brief, conversation. "Ron" recalled some experiences we'd shared in our youth during a trip we'd taken with the business faculty to Europe early in 1970. He remembered some things one way; I remembered them in a slightly different way. Then I recalled how I'd bought a jacket off him for five bucks way back when, and that, in fact, I still had it. The jacket had belonged to his father, and I said I'd bring it back the next day if he'd like to have it. Then I got called away for some reason (I was, after all, officially at work at Homecoming) and that was the end of the conversation.

I did what I said I'd do, too. That evening I dug out the old jacket, threw it in the washer, and brought it back to Homecoming the next day. The only thing is, I never laid eyes on "Ron" again. He probably was there among the 1,000 or so people in the Big Tent for the Lobster Boil, but I couldn't find him.

I know I wasn't alone in this experience either. I was in on at least a half dozen conversations that went something like this: "Hey, did you see So-and-So?" "Yeah, he's here somewhere." "Where?" "I dunno, but good luck finding him."

Anyway "Ron," I'll just hang onto the jacket, and maybe you can pick it up in another 30 years.

The Enclave

By Fred Allen (BA'51)
Infinity Publishing
ISBN 0-7414-0752-3

The setting of this novel is divided between Germany in 1968 as the confrontation between NATO and the U.S.S.R. makes it one of the most dangerous places on earth, and the upper echelons of the American political scene, which includes a powerful senator and his equally ambitious wife. The Enclave is the ancestral home of the "old general," the ninth Baron von Friederberg and Germany's most decorated officer in the Second World War. Principal characters include the old general and a young American officer who are united by their love of chess. The young American recognizes in the old general a potential resource for his PhD. The old general's dedication to the gradual evolution of leadership qualities comes into conflict with the young American's training in management techniques.

The Faith of Maria

By Fred Allen (BA'51)
Infinity Publishing
ISBN 0-7414-0744-2

This is the story of a young Italian nobleman, Bernard Gallardini, as told by his lifelong friend and executive officer of his estates, Santos Martini. It tells of them growing up with the beautiful and deeply religious Maria, and wondering at the depth of her faith and witnessing her recurring visions. Both men are deeply in love with Maria, but she married Bernard after his graduation from a prestigious military academy. Throughout Bernard's struggles with Benito Mussolini's invasion of Ethiopia, with the church on his return to Italy, and with the German retreat through his country during the war, he has the devoted support of both the devout Maria and his faithful friend Santos.

Half-Hearted Enemies: Nova Scotia, New England and the War of 1812

By John Boileau (BA'66)
Formac Publishing Company Limited
ISBN: 0-88780-657-0

In 1812, the United States declared war on Great Britain, and the Canadian colonies were committed to an armed conflict with their American neighbors. Upper and Lower Canada quickly became the main battleground, but in Nova Scotia, merchants were reluctant to imperil a strong and long-standing trading partnership with their New England cousins. While officially at war, they tried to maintain a separate peace. Half-Hearted Enemies explores this ambiguous wartime relationship. It examines the role played by Nova Scotia in the war, and the impact of the conflict on the lives of everyone, military and civilian alike, and offers vivid descriptions of some of the largest battles. It also recounts the human cost of the conflict: the economic impact of war, garrison and prison life, and the inevitable flow of refugees. This book offers a new perspective on a key period in Canadian, British and American history.

Serving Twa Maisters: Five Classic Plays in Scots Translation

Edited by John Corbett (MA'82) and Bill Findlay
Association for Scottish Literary Studies
ISBN 0-948877-64-2

The 20th century was one of the richest periods in history for literary translations into Scots. Not since the 16th century has the Scots tongue been the vehicle for such a volume and range of translations and adaptations. A powerful factor in this blossoming of translation was the founding in the 1940s of a modern tradition of translating drama into Scots. Alongside original plays, these translations placed the vernacular at the heart of post-war Scottish drama. This anthology celebrates the crucial contribution by writers for the stage to Scots literary translation. It further demonstrates how the demands of translation for the stage help re-invent and extend literary Scots. The collection comprises translations of classic plays from a variety of eras and languages, produced over half a century by writers of different generations.

Rust and Bone

By Craig Davidson (MA'03)
Viking Canada
ISBN:0-670-06442-4

In steel-tipped prose, Craig Davidson conjures up a bleak world populated by hardscrabble pugilists, fighting dogs, sex addicts, and others held captive by their own bad luck and bad decisions. In story after story, Davidson follows his characters into situations bereft of all hope — a repo man watches his wife degenerate with illness, a whale trainer feels his life has lost all meaning after his leg is bitten off by an orca, and a policewoman is shattered when she accidentally shoots a child — yet, despite the darkness within these stories, they each have a moment of redemption because of the humanity with which Davidson is able to invest his characters.

Challenging The Skies

By Don Fonger (BScCE'49)
ISBN 0-9693675-0-3

In June of 1987, Don Fonger and his son Jim set out from Winnipeg on an unprecedented flight in their Piper Twin Comanche aircraft. With its modest 30-foot wingspan, the two pilots circumnavigated the globe on a 50-day journey that took them through 19 countries, five continents and covered more than 26,000 miles. Along the way they saw the splendor of the Taj Mahla, flew over the peak of Mount Everest, landed in the Arabian desert, and visited the tomb of King Tut. As Don relates in the book, they didn't just fly around the world; they visited around the world.

From Migrant to Acadian: A North American Border People, 1604-1755

By N.E.S. Griffiths (MA'57)
McGill-Queen's University Press
ISBN 0773526994

Despite their position between warring French and British empires, European settlers in the Maritimes eventually developed from a migrant community into a distinctive Acadian society. From Migrant to Acadian is a comprehensive narrative history of how the Acadian community came into being. Acadian culture not only survived, despite attempts to extinguish it, but developed into a complex society with a unique identity and traditions that still exist in present day Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. N.E.S. Griffiths uses the results of 45 years of archival research in Canada, the United States, the United Kingdom, France, and Italy to place Acadian history in the context of contemporary North American and European events. N.E.S. Griffiths is a distinguished scholar of Acadian history and professor emeritus of the Department of History, Carleton University.

Wild Women: a novel

By Simon Leigh (MA'76)
UKA Press
ISBN 1-904781-28-4

Steven Butts arrives in Canada to become a professor and race cars. His girlfriend comes too. Everything that can go wrong does. Note to self: next time, leave Eddie home; do not accept a job teaching something you know nothing about; Canada is cold, do not buy a British sports car; on entering academia, abandon all logic; hands off the student body; do not visit old girlfriend in London; if you do, avoid sleeping with her flat mate; never get married to make yourself feel better; once married, you will become strangely attractive to women — just say no; on wife’s opening night, do not take a student; do not go car racing; do not crash. Wild Women has sex, treachery, romance, gossip, satire, travel, madness, skiing, Anglo-Saxon poetry, and car racing (which predictably does not end well).

Halcyon Days

By Allison Mitcham (MA’54, PhD’72)
DreamCatcher Publishing
ISBN:1-894372-49-2

According to mythology, the halcyon bird, the kingfisher, was given the magical power to halt the wild action of the waves from time to time, thus producing temporary calm — tranquillity in an otherwise tumultuous sea. Such brief, serene and restorative interludes — halcyon days — have been granted Elizabeth, the protagonist of this book. Reviewing this book, novelist Briann Stuart has stated: “Reader, if you have an ache in your heart for W.O. Mitchell . . . If you were saddened when you heard that he had left the mortal prairies behind . . . Here is another voice from the great heart of America that will warm your heart and spirit. Mitcham speaks with the same love, the same passion for home, but with her own gentle humour.”

The Canadians: Ernie Coombs: Mr. Dressup

By Trudy Duivenvoorden Mitic (Class of ’78)
Fitzhenry & Whiteside, 2005
ISBN: 1-55041-498-4

For almost 30 years, Ernie Coombs was Canada’s Mr. Dressup, loved and cherished by legions of children and their parents. Host of CBC Television program of the same name, Mr. Dressup won the hearts and loyalty of his young viewers with kindness and a genuine interest in their world. He sang songs, drew pictures, made crafts and had a “Tickle Trunk” filled with wonderful costumes and props. As Mr. Dressup, Ernie Coombs played a substantial role in launching the first generation of television programming developed specifically for Canadian children. Over the years he safeguarded the program against commercialism and the influence of American TV. In the end, almost 4,000 segments of Mr. Dressup were created by and for CBC Television.

This Is My Story

By Ivan (Ian) Albert Reid (BScF’49)
Self-Published by Ian Reid, 613-225-4510

After purchasing his first computer in 2002, Ian Reid sat down and laid out his life’s story. From his childhood in Norton, N.B., through his school and university days to his 35-year career as a surveyor in the north and with the Water Survey of Canada, My Story covers the gamut of Ian Reid’s life and work. The book is liberally illustrated with photos, diagrams, clippings and maps from Ian’s life. An appendix includes references to 58 reports he prepared during his career that are housed in the National Library of Canada.

In Fine Form: The Canadian Book of Form Poetry

Edited by Kate Braid and Sandy Shreve (BA’73)
Polestar
ISBN 1-55192-777-2

Kate Braid and Sandy Shreve have edited a comprehensive and groundbreaking anthology, In Fine Form: The Canadian Book of Form Poetry. This book covers the familiar territory of forms like the ballad, sonnet, and introduces the fugue and palindrome as new forms. The result is a thrilling collection of 175 poems spanning more than two centuries and more than 20 forms that will appeal to every poet and reader, old and young, teacher and student. The book is arranged by sections, one for each form, with a brief introduction to that form’s conventions and variations. An extended essay explores common poetic terms and technical devices.

Sustainable Turf: Establishment, Maintenance, and IPM Guidelines for Turf in Atlantic Canada

By Jack Wetmore (BBA’65) and Ken Browne (BEd’78)
N.B. Horticultural Trades Association
ISBN 0-9734392-0-3

Concern over environmental and health impacts is placing pressure on the turf growers to reduce lawn care inputs. In Sustainable Turf, the authors have developed a manual that serves to provide information, research and local experience on the topic of managing turf to encourage healthy growth, conserve topsoil and water, protect the environment and reduce the use of pesticides and fertilizers. The manual provides a basic guide and resource for everyone from the home owner to the lawn care specialist to understand that a strong and healthy lawn and sound management practices can be the best long-term inhibitor of weeds and pests in turf.

UNB law students give back to community through pro bono services

Last year, about 40 UNB law students made a big donation to the underprivileged in Fredericton. They donated time.

PBSC co-ordinators from across the country gather once a year each spring to share ideas and plan their respective programs.

The service is entirely free, and students do not gain course credit for their work. McCavour says the seven-year-old (and counting) program offers students a great way to assess potential career options.

“Public interest law has been growing in Canada for some time,” McCavour says. “There are a few UNB graduates running non-profit organizations right here in Fredericton.”

PBSC is funded by the UNB faculty of law and the law firm of McCarthy Tétrault.

Bring back Red Bombers

UNB had a Football team once, but not in my lifetime. It’s time for football to return to UNB. I think the UNB alumni should make it a reality. People have been talking about it for years. I say enough is enough. Let’s just do it. Football has grown by leaps and bounds in the Fredericton area in recent years, and I strongly believe that the community would support the team with as much interest and passion as it does the hockey team.

I believe a football team would bring a much-needed boost to school spirit and pride, not to mention it is a high-profile CIS sport that would promote the university. In the end, football doesn’t cost, it pays.

Seven awarded honorary degrees at graduations

UNB awarded seven honorary degrees during its spring graduation ceremonies on both campuses.

In Fredericton during the 176th Encaenia celebrations, when nearly 1,600 degrees were awarded, honorary degrees were awarded to:

- Francis Anthony Comper, president and CEO of BMO Financial Group, doctor of letters;

- Jill Ker Conway and Natalie Zemon Davis, internationally renowned scholars in women's history, named doctors of letters;

- Willis Roberts, the father of geomatics in Atlantic Canada, doctor of science honoris causa;

- David Campbell, entrepreneur and philanthropist, doctor of letters.

On the Saint John campus, more than 400 students were awarded their parchments as honorary degrees were awarded to:

- Thomas McGloan, Q.C., senior partner in the Saint John law firm of Gilbert, McGloan, Gillis, doctor of laws;

- Elizabeth Weir, MLA for Saint John Harbour and long-time leader of the provincial NDP, doctor of laws.

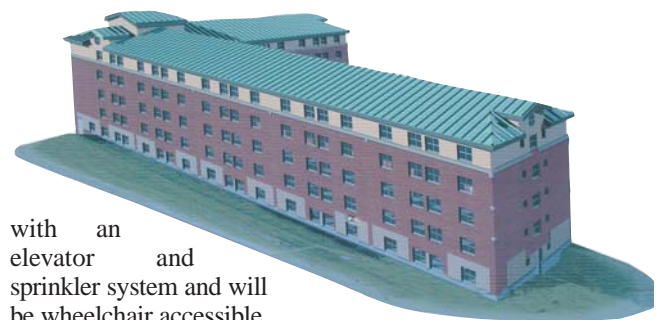

New residence set for Fredericton campus

Next year, more UNB students will be able to call the Fredericton campus their home away from home.

UNBF is set to break ground on a 177-bed, suite/apartment style residence. Construction of the 75,400-square-foot facility was scheduled to start in September. The new residence is expected to be ready for its first occupants in September 2006.

Located just up the hill from the Lady Dunn/Joy Kidd/Tibbits residence on Mackay Drive, the complex will offer students an alternative to traditional residence living. It will also allow the university to accommodate more students on campus and reduce the pressure for student housing in the Fredericton community.

The new structure will be a four storey, L-shaped building containing a mix of one-, two- and three-bedroom units (43 three-bedroom, 16 two-bedroom, and four one-bedroom. All units will be furnished and will include a dishwasher in addition to the usual kitchen appliances. The building will be equipped with an elevator and sprinkler system and will be wheelchair accessible.

"This will be the first significant building since the campus plan was unveiled," said Mike Ryan, associate-vice president (capital planning and property development). "We worked hard to ensure that it conforms to the plan in its siting, building footprint, massing and exterior architectural treatment."

ADI Group of Fredericton will oversee the design and construction of the new residence. The total costs, including furnishings, of the new residence is expected to total $8.5 million. It will be financed, owned and managed by UNB.

UNB Fredericton's residence community is one of the largest university residence communities in Atlantic Canada.

Scholarships, prizes, bursaries available at UNB

Scholarships, prizes and bursaries are an increasingly vital component of the assistance UNB offers its students. In this space from time to time, Alumni News will highlight new or existing awards available to qualified students.

Alfred G. Bailey Undergraduate Scholarship

Awarded annually to a student entering or enrolled in the bachelor of arts program on the Fredericton campus who has demonstrated broad interest and ability in the social sciences. Selection will be made on the basis of scholastic attainment and financial need. The scholarship is in memory of Alfred G. Bailey, professor of history at UNB, librarian, poet and professor emeritus. This scholarship is funded by former students and colleagues and the family of Dr. Bailey.

Desmond Pacey Undergraduate Scholarship

Awarded annually to a student entering or enrolled in the bachelor of arts program on the Fredericton campus who has demonstrated interest and ability in English literature. Selection will be made on the basis of scholastic attainment and financial need. The scholarship is in memory of Desmond Pacey, beloved professor of English at UNB, and author and tireless champion of the study of Canadian literature. This scholarship is funded by former students and colleagues and the family of Desmond Pacey.

W.Y. Smith Undergraduate Scholarship

Awarded annually to a student entering or enrolled in the bachelor of arts program on the Fredericton campus who has demonstrated broad interest and ability in the social sciences. Selection will be made on the basis of scholastic attainment and financial need. The scholarship is in memory of William Y. Smith, professor of economics and political science at UNB, and professor emeritus. This scholarship is funded by former students and colleagues and the family of W.Y. Smith.

Science Discovery Scholarship

Awarded to students who are entering the bachelor of science program on the Fredericton campus. Selections are made on the basis of scholastic attainment; financial need may be taken into consideration. Awarding Agency: The university, on the recommendation of the faculty of science. This scholarship is funded by alumni, friends, faculty and staff of the faculty of science, UNB Fredericton.

Connolly Bursary in Nursing

Awarded on the basis of financial need to a New Brunswick student who has completed at least the minimum requirements for the first year of the bachelor of nursing program and has demonstrated successful academic performance. Preference will be given to graduates of Minto High School. The bursary is available to nursing students at UNB Fredericton, Bathurst and Moncton. This bursary is funded by an anonymous donor and the New Brunswick University Opportunities Fund.

Dr. Satya Paul Handa Prize in Medical Nursing

A prize to be awarded annually on the recommendation of the department of nursing to a Saint John campus student graduating from the bachelor of nursing degree program who has demonstrated excellence in the theory and practice of medical nursing in the care of patients and families experiencing kidney disease, hypertension, kidney transplantation or other chronic illnesses. The prize is funded by Dr. Satya Paul Handa, recipient of an honorary doctor of science degree from UNB Saint John in May 2003.

UNB awards first William S. Lewis Graduate Fellowship

Adam Ding has become the first graduate student to be awarded UNB's William S. Lewis Doctoral Fellowship — Atlantic Canada's most prestigious graduate-level university scholarship. Mr. Ding, a PhD candidate in civil engineering, will receive $25,000 for four years.

The prestigious William S. Lewis Doctoral Fellowships are awarded to UNB doctoral students who have the potential to be regional, national or international leaders in research and the dissemination of knowledge. Selection is based on academic excellence and on the candidate's contribution to their field of study.

The fellowship is usually awarded each year, alternating between the sciences and humanities disciplines. They can be held for a maximum of four years. The value of the fellowship is $25,000 per year.

Mr. Ding, 29, was born in Yixing, Jiangsu, China. He graduated with a bachelor's degree in investment from the Central University of Finance and Economics in Beijing in 1998. He switched to studying construction, obtaining a master's degree in building construction from Auburn University in Alabama, where he maintained a perfect grade point average.

Mr. Ding's field of research is on wearable computers in construction operations. For his PhD, Mr. Ding will continue his research, focusing on the implementation and adoption of multimodal information and communication technologies for the architectural, engineering, and construction industry.

The Lewis Fellowships were created by William S. Lewis (BScEE'62, DLitt'01), an engineer, economist, businessman, and philanthropist. After graduating from UNB in 1962, Dr. Lewis studied finance at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and economics at Carleton University, earning an MA and PhD, respectively.

He taught at various universities before leaving academia to pursue a career in real estate. He is now retired.

A $6-million legacy

Colin B. Mackay leaves UNB the largest bequest it has ever received

The estate of Colin B. Mackay, president of UNB from 1953-1969, has made a $6-million bequest to the university, the largest ever received by the institution.

As part of UNB's Forging Our Futures campaign, the gift will be split evenly between an endowment for the Law Library at UNB Fredericton and scholarships and bursaries at UNB Saint John.

"Colin B. Mackay was one of the great builders of UNB," said UNB President John McLaughlin. "Not only did he help expand the Fredericton campus and create UNB Saint John, he was also an academic builder, overseeing the hiring of new faculty and the creation of new programs that changed the face of this university. He is a part of UNB, its buildings, campuses, programs and people. This gift by his estate is a fitting legacy to one of our greatest presidents."

In Fredericton, $3 million will be used to create an endowment for the Gerard La Forest Library in the faculty of law. Located in Ludlow Hall, the library contains more than 137,000 volumes. The annual income from the endowment will go primarily towards the purchase of law books, periodicals, and other educational material.

"We welcome this gift from the estate of Colin B. Mackay to the Law Library," said Dean of Law Philip Bryden. "He was not only our president, but also a lawyer. He loved the law as much as he loved this university. With this endowment, he will ensure a brighter future for the library and the faculty of law."

In Saint John, $3 million has been allocated for the creation of the Colin B. Mackay scholarships and bursaries.

"In many ways, Colin B. Mackay was the father of UNB Saint John," said Kathryn Hamer, UNB vice-president (Saint John). "At first reluctant, he eventually became one of the great champions of this campus and its people. He was very proud of what we have accomplished and we're very proud to have significant undergraduate awards in his name."

Dr. Mackay graduated from UNB with a degree in history in 1942. He then joined the navy, commanding a landing craft on Juno Beach on D-Day.

After the war, he obtained a law degree from the University of British Columbia and returned home to practice law. Over the objections of many, Lord Beaverbrook chose Dr. Mackay as president of UNB in 1953. At the age of 33, he became the youngest university president ever in Canada.

During his tenure, he presided over a period of unprecedented growth. In Fredericton, more than 22 new buildings were constructed, and the law school was moved from Saint John to Fredericton.

Dr. Mackay also helped select Tucker Park as the site for UNBSJ.

During his 16-year presidency, the student body rose from fewer than 800 to more than 5,000.

After stepping down from UNB, Dr. Mackay became executive director of the Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada and worked with developing universities in Africa. An officer of the Order of Canada, he received 13 honorary degrees. In 1978, he was named UNB's first president emeritus.

Dr. Mackay died Nov. 27, 2003, in Saint John at the age of 83.

UNB professors, students awarded $8 million in NSERC funding

Professors and students in the natural sciences and engineering fields at UNB are receiving $8 million in grants and scholarships from Science and Engineering Research Canada (NSERC).

The funding was awarded following national, peer-reviewed competitions conducted by NSERC.

At UNB, faculty members will receive 57 Discovery and related grants for a total of just over $6 million. "We are extremely pleased with the success of our researchers in this very stiff competition," said Greg Kealey, vice-president (research) at UNB. "UNB increased its total Discovery Grant funding by 31 per cent over last year, which represents an additional $1.33 million in grant monies to UNB.

"Not only did UNB see an increase in the number of awards granted but also a significant increase in the average grant to UNB researchers."

Forty-two young researchers at the graduate and postdoctoral level at UNB have received $1,679,200 in Canada graduate scholarships, postgraduate scholarships and post doctoral fellowships. This represents an 81 per cent success rate for UNB applicants.

In addition, NSERC undergraduate research awards totaling $265,500 have been awarded to 59 bachelor's level students for summer internships with UNB researchers.

The campaign begins

More than 500 turn out for official launch in June

With fanfare and flourish, more than 500 people turned out at Fredericton's Wu Centre and Saint John's Ganong Hall in June to celebrate the launch of UNB's most important development campaign in its 220-year history – Forging Our Futures. Alumni, faculty, staff, students and friends of the university gathered for what President and Vice-Chancellor John McLaughlin called a pivotal moment in the life of UNB. It was both a beginning of a bold new future and a celebration of what UNB has become.

“We need to have that designated time, that official moment, when we pause to celebrate, to remember, to rejoice and to give thanks for the many blessings we enjoy. In the life of this institution, this is one of those occasions. Thank you all for sharing it with us and for caring about UNB,” said Dr. McLaughlin.

“Today, we begin a new chapter in this great public institution with the launch of Forging Our Futures, which will transform this university and the world around it,” he said in launching the campaign.

With a target of $80 million, Forging Our Futures is the single largest fundraising campaign in New Brunswick history.

As of the launch date, the campaign had already raised just more than $50 million, including a $20-million pledge from the Province of New Brunswick announced by Premier Bernard Lord. The provincial government has pledged an initial $10 million and a further $10 million in its 2009-2010 budget if the Forging Our Futures campaign meets its private sector target of $60 million.

“Higher education is key to New Brunswick’s future prosperity,” said Premier Lord. “UNB’s Forging Our Futures campaign will move that agenda forward with investments in students, faculty, programs and facilities on both its campuses that will benefit all New Brunswickers. We are pleased to be partners with UNB in this campaign. I ask others here at home, around the region and across the country to consider doing the same.”

Also announcing a gift of $1 million at the launch were Wayne and Cathy Beach, both members of the Class of '68, to support the UNB Opportunities Fund. In addition, the McCain Foundation, supported by McCain Foods and administered by all four branches of the McCain Family, has pledged $1 million to the UNB libraries to enhance collections. Former UNB Chancellor Fredrik Eaton and his wife Nicky also made a commitment of $1 million to establish the Catherine and Fredrik Eaton Queen's Belfast-UNB Exchange Program for students and faculty on both campuses.

The City of Saint John made a $2-million donation to Forging Our Futures over a 10-year period, making it the largest gift from the city to UNB Saint John. Mayor Norm McFarlane said the donation will not only benefit students and faculty, but all the people of Saint John and beyond. “The City of Saint John is making a $2-million commitment to Forging Our Futures because it believes in UNB Saint John,” he said. “For more than 40 years, UNB Saint John has been an important part of our city and its people. Now, with projects like the University Commons on the Saint John campus, UNB is creating a new future that we want to be a part of.”

UNB Chancellor Dr. Richard Currie, OC, finished the launch event by thanking all of UNB's supporters. “On behalf of the university, I thank everyone here in Saint John, in Fredericton and throughout the province who has supported the campaign. Your support has been substantial and crucial in getting us to this point. And to those who haven't yet come on board I say, we will be calling.”

Two of Canada's largest banks weighed in with key donations before the launch. In April, the RBC Foundation announced a $350,000 donation to the Centre for Financial Studies at UNB Fredericton as part of a donation to Forging Our Futures. The gift will secure the future of the centre's award-winning Student Investment Fund program, which gives UNB business students real investment experience in Canada's growing financial services industry.

“We are proud to play a role in helping UNB reach its Forging Our Futures campaign goal,” said Wayne Bossert, RBC's regional president for the Atlantic Provinces. “Directing our gift to the Centre for Financial Studies and the Student Investment Fund enables us to support the future leaders of the financial services and business sectors, and that's good news for this province, this region and this country.”

And in May, Scotiabank announced a $750,000 donation to the Forging Our Futures campaign to support Study Abroad programs for students on both campuses. Scotiabank will donate $700,000 to create the Scotiabank International Study Awards at UNB. These will support students from both campuses who participate in UNB's various Study Abroad programs. A further $50,000 will be earmarked for the Scotiabank Special International Internship at Renaissance College in Fredericton for a student who is either disabled or who intends to work with disabled persons when overseas.

“Scotiabank has always had a strong commitment to education, and is proud to support young people in pursuing their academic goals,” said Rick Waugh, President and CEO of Scotiabank. “As Canada's most international bank, we know that in an increasingly competitive global marketplace, it is important to ensure that we are providing students with the tools and techniques to keep pace with ever-changing technologies, business, social and industrial practices.”

Kicking it up a bit at Homecoming

UNB
Homecoming
2005!

JULY 28 - 31, 2005

Well, if anyone DIDN'T have a good time at Homecoming 2005, we didn't hear about it.

More than 1,500 alumni and guests returned to the Fredericton campus July 28-31 for the event, and judging from all the smiles and kind comments the organizers received, everyone was glad they turned out.

Even the weather co-operated . . . it rained cats and dogs in the days leading up to the event, and the rain resumed for a day or two immediately after. But during — sunny and warm!

The Big Tent on Chapman Field, shown on the cover of this edition, was again the main venue for Homecoming. It was packed Thursday and Friday evenings for the Welcome Home reception and the traditional Lobster Boil followed by Sons of Maxwell.

Then Saturday night hundreds more turned out at the tent for the warm-up BBQ prior to Celtic fiddler Natalie MacMaster's performance at the Aitken Centre.

And in between the main on-campus events, there was Homecoming activity all over the city. About 100 of our 'small groups' — ranging from specific class years and faculties to sports groups to campus groups such as CHSR and The Brunswickan — held their own get-togethers in homes, bars and restaurants across the region. One group in particular — the Phys Eders of 1966 — had a phenomenal turnout with 31 of 44 members of the graduating class attending.

Then there were the golf and tennis tournaments, Faculty Fest, the Last Class Bash in the Big Tent after the MacMaster show and the ecumenical church service Sunday morning.

But, because words can't convey the true atmosphere of Homecoming, we're going to let images do it — just flip through the following pages for a pictorial record of the event, and note all the smiling faces.

It all would have been impossible without the tremendous amount of work put in by hundreds of people over almost two years. Particularly, the Associated Alumni extends its thanks and appreciation to the volunteer organizing committee headed by Mary Ellen McKinney (BBA'77, BN'00), and including Kathy Mac Farlane (BPE'88), Margot Russell (BA'69), Wolfgang Faig (MScSE'65), Barb MacMullin (BPE'74), Larry Guitard (BA'75, LLB'77) and Margie Gregg (BA'92).

The association also would like to recognize the support provided by our sponsors, and the university and its departments such as Physical Plant, Security and the Aitken Centre.

But our most heartfelt thanks has to go to those 1,500 of you who came back for Homecoming. It was good to see you again!

Our thanks to photographers Joy Cummings, Rob Blanchard, Kathryn Burke and Kyle Cunjak for taking most of the photographs that appear on our Homecoming pages. Many of these and other photographs taken by alumni volunteers can be found on our website at Noel Villard on campus the day he arrived in Fredericton, less than two weeks before Homecoming was to begin.

Making Homecoming a real adventure

For Noel Villard (BPE'66) of Whistler, B.C., Homecoming 2005 provided an incentive to tackle a daunting project that had been in the back of his mind for some time.

He decided to bicycle to the event.

Leaving home on May 27 towing a small trailer holding his supplies, Noel pedalled over the Rockies, across the Prairies, through Central Canada, and down into New Brunswick. He arrived at the gates of UNB on the afternoon of July 15, accompanied by Fredericton buddy Jim Morell (BPE'67), who had biked out to Mactaquac to meet him.

But he didn't stop there. Having come this far, Noel decided to venture on through Nova Scotia, and on July 27, two months to the day after he left, he dipped a toe in the Atlantic to complete his cross-country trek. He'd covered 6,100 kilometres.

Throughout his trip, wife Jenny (BPE'66) kept his friends informed of his progress via regular e-mails. She also provided ground support for him as far as Calgary, but after that he was on his own. Jenny flew east to meet Noel and the rest of their classmates for Homecoming.

The most rewarding parts of the trip, he says, were the people he met along the way. As much as it was a tremendous physical challenge, it was an even more rewarding personal experience.

Oh, and by the way, he and Jenny flew home.

Thursday: Tennis, Wilmot Park

Thursday afternoon's tennis tournament at Wilmot Park drew about 30 participants, most of whom seemed to take the competition fairly seriously.

Homecoming 2005 wouldn't have been the success it was without the efforts of several hundred volunteers.

These alumni and friends of UNB committed literally thousands of person hours before and during the event, some putting in 18-hour days and on a long weekend, at that.

The Homecoming 2005 organizing committee, the UNB Associated Alumni and the University of New Brunswick extend their heartfelt thanks and appreciation to all those who donated their time, talent and energy to Homecoming.

As well, special thanks must be extended to the following for their help in various ways:

UNB Alumni Survey 2004-2005

You've spoken, and now we're listening.

More than 10 per cent of our total alumni membership took the time last fall to let us know — through our alumni survey — their thoughts on the university and the UNB Associated Alumni.

Just more than 6,000 of you responded — the vast majority through our online form — to our far-ranging survey that asked your opinions on matters ranging from the quality of your UNB experience as a student to your impressions of UNB today to how you rate the association's services.

And now, after the survey responses have been analysed by an Alumni Council interpretation team assisted by office staff, the association is working to improve our efforts in key areas, and within the context of our strategic plan, Energized and Involved.

Association Executive Director Mark Hazlett explains.

"Energized and Involved is the blueprint for the association's activities for the next five years," he said. "The plan identifies six Key Result Areas (KRAs) — pride and loyalty, advice, students and young alumni, advocacy, student and faculty recruitment, and fundraising — where the UNB Associated Alumni is to play either a lead or support role in advancing these areas among our alumni membership, all for the benefit of the university.

"What the survey provides us with is a better understanding of how our alumni feel about various aspects of our KRAs, which in turn gives us a better understanding of what we have to do to change attitudes and increase the involvement of our membership."

Mr. Hazlett points to the survey's figures and analysis on the pride and loyalty KRA as one example. (See figures in the right-hand column.)

The survey results show that roughly 92 per cent of respondents indicated they were happy with the quality of their UNB experience and the quality of their UNB education. Since pride is usually about feelings, these results indicate alumni have a strong pride in their university, the report concludes.

However, the survey also points out that the other half of the pride and loyalty KRA — loyalty — is more about behaviors than feelings. And the survey indicates there are lesser degrees of loyalty, connectivity, and sense of responsibility to the university.

As a result of those findings, the survey report recommends, among other things,:

- greater efforts to educate alumni about how important they are to UNB;
- education of current students about the importance of alumni in supporting UNB;
- leveraging various aspects of the association's Outreach Program, such as volunteer opportunities, and improving communications with alumni to foster a better sense of community with and responsibility to UNB.

Similarly, the survey results indicate the association has some work to do in terms of its own image within the alumni constituency. The figures indicate we can make improvements in the strength of the organization and in the understanding of our role, particularly among younger graduates.

Again, the survey recommends these issues can be addressed by better educating students and alumni about the association, and by establishing stronger connections with current students.

"It's clear from the survey that we have a lot of work to do," Mr. Hazlett said. "But it has certainly been a worthwhile effort because the results provide us with a better focus as we go about implementing our KRA strategies as outlined in Energized and Involved. We certainly appreciate the high participation rate in the survey by our members, and I'd like to thank them for that."

SPARC evolving, though objectives remain the same

SPARC, the student alumni organization on the Fredericton campus, will be undergoing an evolution this fall. Results from the alumni survey indicate that over the last 15 years there has been a decrease in awareness of the UNB Associated Alumni among recent graduates. It became apparent there is a need to reach out to students across the campus in a new way.

SPARC (the Student Pride and Alumni Relations Committee) was formed in January 1994 by a group of enthusiastic UNB Fredericton students who saw a need to provide a vehicle to link current students to the alumni association.

Despite the tremendous efforts and energies of the SPARC members over the years, the organization only reached a limited number of the university student population. It is now felt the best way to tackle this issue is to provide a more hands-on approach by the office in offering services to current students.

To that end, the following changes will occur:

- 1. New Student Team: The 'team' will be comprised of team leaders who will take on responsibility for certain projects and activities. An alumni staff person will co-ordinate with team leaders and will direct the overall management of activities and projects.
- 2. A New Name: Recognition of what SPARC stands for is limited on campus and it is felt that a simpler title is needed to promote the existence of a student alumni group on campus. A new name will be decided upon by group members this fall.
- 3. Tour Guide Program: The Tour Guide Program was originally developed by the SPARC organization. Responsibility for the program has gradually transferred to the Office of Student Recruitment and Integrated Marketing (SRIM), which now will manage the program entirely.
- 4. Greater Connections to Existing Student Groups: Programs and services will be developed in collaboration with existing student groups on campus. Specifically, an enhanced relationship with the Student Union will be developed.

Programs and services of the new student alumni team will include a mix of past activities with some new ideas. Faculty panels will see alumni interact with students groups to provide insights into the career areas.

An improved relationship with the Student Union will see a greater emphasis on instilling pride and celebrating UNB. The 'team' will also carry on the proud tradition of supporting local community events and charities.

This new opportunity will help to create a new and dynamic student group that will build upon the work started by the SPARC organization.

Proudly UNB Awards: 2005 recipients

This year, the UNB Associated Alumni broadened its awards program to recognize more groups and individuals who have made significant contributions to the work of the Association and to the University of New Brunswick. We are proud to present this year's recipients.

Absent from the awards ceremony during Homecoming 2005 was recipient Tammy Oram, who had another commitment.

A brief look at the Proudly UNB Awards and the recipients

ALUMNI AWARD OF HONOUR

The UNB Associated Alumni's most prestigious award recognizes truly outstanding service and commitment to UNB and the Associated Alumni. This year's recipients are:

Ray Barton (BScCE'69, MScCE'71) of Ottawa was president of the UNB Club of Ottawa from 1997-2002. During this time, he organized numerous events and activities that provided Ottawa-area alumni with the opportunity to stay connected with each other and their alma mater. He dedicated his volunteer hours to keeping alumni Energized & Involved and used this opportunity to encourage alumni to provide strong support to the university and its students.

Robert Skillen (BPE'79, BEd'81, MEd'88) of Fredericton was the executive director of the UNB Associated Alumni from 1990 to 2001, and oversaw a significant growth in the association's programs and services. During his tenure, the association developed its revenue generating services, established its office in Saint John, created Homecoming, launched the Look Who's Talking student recruitment initiative, expanded the chapter network, and established a new working agreement with the university.

Richard Tingley (BScCE'67, DSc'99) is a long-time Fredericton businessman. He was the owner/operator of Tingleys Save Easy Supermarkets for more than 25 years, and provided part-time employment to hundreds of UNB students, as well as several scholarships. Richard has been particularly involved with varsity athletics, has served as a member of numerous university committees, and was a member of the university's Board of Governors for 11 years and served as its chair.

AWARD OF DISTINCTION

This award recognizes the significant contributions made by UNB alumni in their local communities and beyond, for which they have been recognized regionally, nationally, or internationally. This year's recipients are:

Nancy Mathis (PhD'96) and her husband Chris Mathis (BScME'93) of Fredericton used their expertise to found Mathis Instruments, a company that got its start at UNB. Nancy was awarded the prestigious Business Development Bank of Canada Young Entrepreneur Award for N.B. in October 1997. In September 2003, she received the Ernest C. Manning Award Foundation prize for innovation worth $100,000. Nancy has been proactive in giving the university a great deal of credit for her personal and business success.

Rod Nolan (BScEE'57, MScEE'63, DSc'04) of Fredericton is the vice-chairman of the consulting and engineering design firm Neill and Gunter Ltd. He was a founding director of the company, and is widely recognized for his role in building the consulting engineering industry in N.B. He is the founding chairman of Portage Atlantic, a substance abuse rehabilitation centre for adolescents, and a founding director of the N.B. Cancer Network. He served on the university's Board of Governors from 1994 to 2003, five of those years as chair.

James W. Ross, C.M., (BA'61, LLB'65), a Fredericton philanthropist and businessman, received Canada's highest civilian honour, the Order of Canada, in 2000. A former Progressive Conservative Senator, Jim was recognized for his work with disenfranchised youth. In 1994, he founded Partners For Youth Inc., a non-profit organization built on a community partnership model that uses adventure-based counseling to assist young people.

Garth Wade (BEd'80, MEd'89) of Fredericton has vigorously promoted UNB in the sports and educational communities. He was the co-chair of the 2005 AUS Women's Basketball Championships; chair of the 2004 Helen Campbell/Eric Garland Tournament, the City of Fredericton/UNB Basketball Extravaganza, and the 2001-2003 Eric Garland Tournaments; and was the operations chair for the 1995-2003 Eric Garland Basketball Tournaments. He is also the co-chair of the UNB-hosted 2006 CIS women's basketball championships.

YOUNG ALUMNI ACHIEVEMENT AWARD

This award recognizes those who received a bachelor's degree within the last 10 years or a graduate degree within the last five years. This year's recipients are:

Nathan McFadden (BPE'96) of Agawam, Mass., has put himself in a position to pursue his interest in sports, particularly hockey. While at UNB, he was manager of the Varsity Reds men's hockey team for two seasons. After graduation, he was UNB's sports information director for two years. In mid-1998, he moved to the Saint John Flames of the American Hockey League (AHL). In 2000, he became the AHL's co-ordinator of hockey operations. In 2002, he was promoted to the AHL's manager of hockey operations.

Tammy Oram (BSc'97) of Toronto is actively involved with the UNB Outreach program and has taken a lead role in re-establishing Toronto-based events with great success. In her local community, Tammy has developed an annual event to raise much-needed funding and awareness for Best Buddies Canada as chair of the Best Intentions Events Committee. Tammy also serves on the events committee of the Toronto Volunteer Bridge, which promotes volunteerism to young professionals.

Tammy Oram

is an international business adviser for CANLink Global. She is also co-director of Enterprise Saint John's Emerging Entrepreneurs program, a project aimed at developing young entrepreneurs. Janet was the co-founder and publisher of [here], New Brunswick's weekly newspaper. For her entrepreneurial pursuits, Janet and her business partners received the Emerging Enterprise Award from the Saint John Board of Trade, and were named Atlantic Canadian finalists in the Ernst & Young Entrepreneur of the Year Awards.

OUTREACH GROUP OF THE YEAR

The recipient group will have made significant contributions to UNB alumni, students, the university or the Associated Alumni during the previous year by holding events, demonstrating growth, and/or undertaking new initiatives in support of these groups.

The UNB Alumni Calgary Chapter continues to be one of the UNB Associated Alumni's most active chapters. Its executive meets regularly to plan events and activities, which have included the annual Maritime lobster dinner; annual Calgary Chapter newsletter; send-off receptions for new and returning students to UNB and Eastern Universities Mardi Gras Bash; CIBC Run for the Cure; post-secondary high school fairs; and a season's greetings e-mail.

OUTREACH VOLUNTEER OF THE YEAR

The recipient has made a significant contribution to advancing the objectives of the Outreach Program, either by being a member of an outreach group or individually.

Christine Coldwell (BA'75, BEd'76), as chapter contact for the UNB Alumni Calgary Chapter, continues to be a very dedicated and committed volunteer. Involved with the Calgary Chapter since 1980, she has been the driving force behind numerous chapter activities and initiatives. Her leadership and enthusiasm have enabled her to build a great team of eager UNB alumni to work with her on a variety of projects. Christine continues to work tirelessly for UNB and the results of her efforts are of immense value.

HONORARY MEMBERSHIP

This honour will be conferred on any person who has rendered outstanding service to the association and UNB.

Stephen Strople came to UNB in 1991 as an academic staff relations officer, and was appointed university secretary in 1992. He is the first non-faculty member to serve in that position. Among his duties as university secretary, Stephen is secretary to the Board of Governors and Fredericton Senate and is commissioner of student discipline. He is the principal source of information and advice about university policies, procedures, regulations, practices and precedents. His years of service and dedication to UNB have been invaluable, and merit his being named an Honorary Member of the UNB Associated Alumni.

ASSOCIATION ACTIVITIES

Calgary has its usual fine turnout for its spring lobster boil

This is the type of turnout that helped the UNB Calgary Chapter be recognized as the Outreach Group of the Year in the Associated Alumni's expanded Proudly UNB Awards. The event was the chapter's annual spring lobster dinner in May. On hand for the event was Association President Carey Ryan, seated at the left beside Calgary Chapter member Renée Fleming, who was elected to council in the spring elections.

Association holds first-ever Fort McMurray event

The Associated Alumni held its first event in Fort McMurray, Alta., in May, and these alumni were among those who turned out. Association Executive Director Mark Hazlett was accompanied on the visit by UNB President John McLaughlin.

Alumni 'grooming station'

The Associated Alumni again offered 'grooming stations' to graduates this year during spring graduation ceremonies on both campuses. Alumni volunteers helped students pin their hoods and assist with other last-minute touchups before the ceremonies. Above, Sara Rothman (BEd'96) helps pin the hood of a graduate on the Fredericton campus.

Outstanding student leaders

More than 40 graduating student leaders at UNB Saint John were recently recognized by the UNB Associated Alumni for their contributions to student life. Above, Lindsay Creamer (BSc'05) and Brendan Sheehan (BSc'05) were chosen as Outstanding Student Leaders by their peers and received university rings from the Student Representative Council.

Donald E. Fowler (BA) of East Lansing, Mich., was born on Oct. 15, 1905, to Elisa and May Fowler in Bloomfield Station, Kings Co., N.B. He completed his primary education at the local "one-room school" and then high school at the Hampton Consolidated School. Deemed too young to attend university, he commuted daily via train to Saint John for a final year of high school. He entered UNB in the fall of 1922 and graduated with the class of '26. He entered McGill, where he majored in chemistry, graduating in 1927 with his masters. While attending McGill, Don worked as an instructor at Macdonald College. There he met his wife to be, Elsie E. Page. For most of his professional life, Don was employed as a chemist and manager by Naugatuck Chemical Co. (now part of Uniroyal) in Naugatuck, Conn. He first worked as an agricultural chemist, but with the start of the Second World War his work shifted to synthetic rubber chemistry. He made a significant contribution to the development of a viable synthetic rubber industry, an area in which he held several patents. Don and Elsie bore three children, Donald P. Fowler (BScF'55), Fredericton, John W. Fowler, Los Altos, Calif., and Elizabeth (Betty) A. Jensen, East Lansing, Mich. In addition, they raised two nieces as daughters, Jean and Marion Campbell. At last count there were some 20 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren. Elsie passed on in 1989. For a 100-year-old, Don is in good health and currently lives in a nursing home near his daughter Betty. One regret he has is not being able to attend UNB functions, which he enjoyed very much.

Margaret Bailey (Class of) of Ottawa passed away May 7, 2005.

Louise Rogerson (Allison, BA) of Moncton, N.B., passed away July 9, 2005. She is survived by sons Andrew Wallace (BA'72), James Wallace (BA'64, BCL'68) and Jock Wallace (BScME'63); three step-daughters; six grandchildren; four great-grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews.

Alexander Gorham (BSc) of St. Catharines, Ont., passed away May 4, 2005. He is survived by three children, eight grandchildren, and 10 great-grandchildren.

'35

Reginald Tweeddale (BScEE, DSc'73) of Fredericton was named to the UNB Engineering Wall of Fame on Nov. 12, 2004.

'36

Marjorie Taylor (Hearne, BA) of Cincinnati, Ohio, passed away March 19, 2005. She is survived by her husband Francis, four children, eight grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Ruth Clynick (Currie, Class of) of White

Leaving a Legacy

My 16 years of postsecondary education have taken me on quite a journey – from traveling across the world, to rewarding research experiences; from a clinical practice in internal medicine, to 31 years of teaching as a university professor. And it all started here. I received a super-duper education at UNB and really came out of my shell. By involving myself in student life, whether through sports or residence life, I developed as a person and gained a new self-confidence. At that time, there were just over 50 girls at UNB and about 800 boys (how could I have not had a good time!?), and the small class sizes were perfect for me. I was fortunate to have received the Mrs. H. G. Chestnut Special Scholarship all four years (although that didn't prevent me from continuing to iron my professor's shirts for 25 cents a piece), and it is my main inspiration for giving back. Through scholarships, I hope I am helping others as I was helped, and by setting up a legacy gift, I have the pleasure of knowing that my support for scholarships will continue long after I am gone. After all this time and all of my degrees, this is the only University I have ever come back to for reunions. UNB will always hold a very special place in my heart."

You can leave your own legacy.

He is survived by his wife Joyce (MacQuarrie, Class of '42); daughters Kathryn Blaney of Mississauga and Karen Van Leeuwen (Cary) of North Carolina; and five grandchildren.

Charlotte Van Dine (BA) of Fredericton passed away May 31, 2005, after a brief illness. After graduating from UNB and following a year of Secretarial College in Boston, she entered a long and successful business career in Montreal with the Canadian International Paper Company, during most of which she served as corporate secretary of the company. Always an active supporter of UNB, she was also a member of the Canadian Federation of University Women, and served for a period as president of the Federation of Business Professional Women's Clubs of Canada. Following retirement about 15 years ago, she returned to her family home on George Street in Fredericton. She is survived by a sister, Barbara Lord (BA'43) of Toronto; a brother, Robert (Aline) of Ottawa; a sister-in-law, Muriel of Fredericton, cousin Shirley Weyman (BA'42) of Fredericton, and a number of nieces and nephews.

Robert Moodie (BScF) of Kanata, Ont., passed away March 19, 2005. His career as a forester took him to Northern Ontario, Maine, Alabama, Quebec and finally to Kanata, where he and his late wife Nancy spent more than 30 years. He is survived by his children Janet (BA'73), Ian (BBA'75), David and Michael; and seven grandchildren.

James Rodman (Rod) Mowat (BSc) of Santiago, Chile, passed away April 12, 2005. He was a mining consultant with the United Nations Development Program since 1968. He is survived by his wife Graciela (Piti); children Anne, Becky, David, Vicki, Kati, and Norah; and many grandchildren.

Lorne Rozovsky (BA) of Bloomfield, Conn., is currently under contract for his 18th and 19th books on health law, both of which will be published by LexisNexis Canada (formerly Butterworths). His last two books, Canadian Health Information, third edition (co-authored with Noela J. Inions, foreword by Madam Justice Ellen Picard) and The Canadian Law of Consent to Treatment, third edition, were both officially endorsed by the Canadian Health Information Management Association. Lorne has published more books on health law than any other Canadian author. He is also an honorary life fellow of the American College of Legal Medicine. @

Helen Duncan (BEd) of Vancouver passed away April 12, 2005. Her career was spent as a teacher and dietitian. She is survived by three sisters.

'65

Henry Beer (Class of) of Mississauga, Ont., passed away Aug. 4, 2005. He was a retired educator. He is survived by his wife Judith; sons Paul and Richard; sister Paula; and brother Don.

Tse-Lok Ho (PhD) of Hsinchu, Taiwan, has, over the past 15 years, published 25 books, 17 of which are in English. The books have been issued by the chemistry publisher of the first rank in the world, Wiley-VCH. Dr. Ho is most proud of the largely excellent book reviews his work has received. In the mid-'90s, he was asked to take over the authorship of Fieser's Reagents for Organic Synthesis, a series started by the late Prof. L.F. Fieser and his wife of Harvard University. So far, Dr. Ho has produced five volumes (Vol. 18-22) and he is continuing this work. Dr. Ho is a member of the faculty of National Chiao Tung University in Taiwan, though he expects to retire soon.

Waving the sheet at the Kines/PhysEd Homecoming faculty fest

Fredericton to host another CIS national championship

Hosting national championships is almost getting to be routine on the Fredericton campus.

In June it was announced UNB Fredericton will host the Canadian Interuniversity Sport (CIS) women's volleyball championships in 2008 and 2009.

UNB hosted a sold out event for the 2003 and 2004 men's hockey championships and is looking to do the same for women's basketball in 2006.

"The successful staging of the men's hockey championships has placed UNB in the position to be able to bid for other national championships," said John Richard, UNB's women's volleyball coach and at the time of the announcement of the winning volleyball bid, acting athletic director. "UNB's mandate to become a national university is also a driving force for the Varsity Reds. Our women's volleyball program has a strong history in Atlantic Canada and is seeking national recognition. What better way than to showcase women's volleyball at UNB Fredericton."

The women's volleyball championship has not been held in the Atlantic conference since 1986, when it was hosted by Université de Moncton.

The CIS women's basketball championships are slated for March 10-12 at the Aitken Centre.

Dickie named AD in Fredericton

Kevin Dickie describes himself as passionate and highly motivated.

These qualities and more are what he brings to the table as the new athletics director at UNB Fredericton, a position he assumed in August.

Kevin Dickie

"I am very excited about becoming a part of the UNB team," Mr. Dickie said when his appointment was announced. "There is a tremendous tradition with Varsity Reds athletics. UNB and Fredericton provide a great opportunity for me and my family."

Mr. Dickie is certainly no stranger to the Atlantic universities scene.

From 1997 to 2000, he coached the Acadia University Axemen. Prior to that, he was head coach of the University of Regina Cougars.

A University of Saskatchewan graduate with a bachelor of education, Mr. Dickie holds a Level IV Canadian Hockey Association/National Coaching Certification Program certificate.

He has coached with Canada's national junior hockey team and the Saskatoon Blades of the Western Hockey League.

Mr. Dickie is the former head of the physical education department at Westcliffe School in Kindersley, Sask. He has taught senior physical education, health and science and mathematics.

Mr. Dickie and his wife Cindy have two sons, Riley and Brett.
