About EWB

Engineers Without Borders Canada is a non-profit, non-governmental organization which seeks to promote human development through access to technology by:

- Partnering with developing communities to help build the capacity of their technical sector.
- Raising awareness among Canadians about how they can make decisions that positively impact communities overseas.
- Encouraging the Canadian government to become a model global citizen by taking on a leadership role in poverty alleviation.

Since September of 2004, the EWB-UNB Chapter has grown to a membership of over four hundred individuals on campus who run education, public awareness, and curriculum enhancement programs.
