

EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

www.unb.ca/hr/careers

COMPETITION: #24-52

FACULTY OF BUSINESS

TENURE-TRACK POSITION IN SUPPLY CHAIN MANAGEMENT AND LOGISTICS

The Faculty of Business, University of New Brunswick Saint John, invites applications for a tenure-track position in Supply Chain Management and Logistics (SCM&L) at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor. The position is available to start on November 1, 2025, or a mutually agreed date. The selection committee will begin reviewing applications by August 1, 2025, and continue the process until the position is filled. This position is subject to budgetary approval.

Before the start date, the successful candidate must have earned a terminal degree (PhD or DBA) in Operations Management, Management Science, Supply Chain Management, Logistics, or a closely related field from an accredited university, preferably by AACSB.

The preferred candidate will be experienced in teaching various subjects related to SCM&L (e.g., Supply Chain Management, Logistics, Operations Management, Quantitative Methods, etc.) at the undergraduate and/or MBA levels. They will have published – or at least have a significant potential to publish, if they are junior faculty – in internationally recognized Operations and Supply Chain Management journals such as those in the SCM List (www.scmlist.com).

The successful candidate will be expected to actively engage in research and provide subject matter expertise and leadership in Supply Chain Management and Logistics. Experience or interest in maritime logistics and/or global supply chains involving seaports would be a significant asset.

The University of New Brunswick (UNB)

The University of New Brunswick (UNB) is the oldest English-language university in Canada. With two campuses in Fredericton (New Brunswick's capital) and Saint John (one of New Brunswick's largest cities), UNB offers over 75 undergraduate and graduate programs. Boasting a 15:1 student-to-faculty ratio, UNB facilitates rich connections, collaboration, and the opportunity to make an immeasurable impact in students' lives and the global community.

Overlooking the Kennebecasis River, the University of New Brunswick Saint John campus stands on the unsundered and uncaded traditional Wolastoqey land. Surrounded by natural beauty and enjoying strong local support and collaboration, UNB Saint John isn't just a campus – it's a community where genuine Maritime friendliness and a supportive and inclusive culture is experienced. This supportive environment promotes creativity, risk taking, and creating a future that matters. UNB Saint John has a Faculty of Arts; Faculty of Business; Faculty of Science, Applied Science and Engineering; and a School of Integrated Health.

The Faculty of Business

Smaller, collegial, and collaborative, the Faculty of Business includes a commitment to enhance students' understanding of the world in which they live and work. The Faculty's mission clearly identifies student citizenship and community impact as key deliverables for its Faculty, Staff and Students. We are a faculty of subject matter experts, with a commitment to experiential learning and pursuit of applied research that meets the needs of local business, industry, non-profit organizations, and New Brunswick's growth efforts. We're proud of our engagement with the Saint John and NB communities – and those beyond our borders. Recognized for the highest standards of excellence on the global stage, UNB's Faculty of Business is accredited by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB) – a distinction fewer than 6% of the world's business schools have earned. The Faculty of Business has shown itself to be an innovative leader in program development offering one of the first Electronic Commerce Degrees and establishing a Research Centre to support it. More recently, The Faculty of Business' MBA Program announced the first English language degree program in Professional Sales, achieved program accreditation through ISP and has an Applied Research Chair in the area. At the undergraduate level, the Faculty of Business was among the first to offer a Bachelor of Applied Management Degree, and offers a Bachelor of Business Administration Degree with majors and minors across all core areas of business as well as interdisciplinary opportunities with Arts. The MBA Program offers several accredited streams of study, many of which offer a pathway to professional designations. Opportunities may exist for faculty members to engage virtual classrooms through streamed course offerings, semestered online offerings and other unique and innovative delivery modes.

For additional information about the University of New Brunswick and the Faculty of Business visit:

- www.unb.ca
- www.unb.ca/saintjohn/business
- www.unb.ca/saintjohn/business/mba

The City of Saint John

As Canada's oldest incorporated city (1785), Greater Saint John area has a population of about 130,000. Saint John (or Menaqesk as it is known in Peskotomuhkati-Wolastoqey) is a vibrant and diverse inter-modal port city on the Bay of Fundy known for the world's highest tides. It is surrounded by forests, rivers, lakes, and beaches yet also boasts many metropolitan amenities and events including the Imperial theatre, the AREA 506 music festival, a CHL Major Junior Hockey team and other major sporting events, the annual uptown moon market, galleries, public art, live music, dance performances, and festivals. Saint John also has access to larger cities a short drive away - Halifax (4 hours), Montreal (9 hours), Boston (7 hours), and New York (10 hours) - and closer by plane.

Qualifications

- Candidates must have earned a terminal degree (PhD or DBA) in Operations Management, Supply Chain Management, Logistics, or a closely related field from an accredited university, preferably by AACSB.
- Candidates must demonstrate successful teaching experience, commensurate with their level of academic seniority, in relevant areas such as Operations Management, Quantitative Analysis and Project Management.

- Candidates must be committed to working with diverse student populations and in culturally diverse work and educational environments, and to promoting experiential learning.
- The candidate must have published, or have a significant potential to publish, in internationally recognized Supply Chain Management journals.
- Industry experience and/or ability to work effectively with industry partners and community stakeholders would be an asset.

If you are keen to make a difference in the classroom and beyond, enjoy exploring innovation in teaching, value community-engaged research, and are open to engaging communities within and outside the university in meaningful ways, we encourage you to apply.

The salary range and fringe benefits for this position are defined in the Association of New Brunswick Teachers (AUNBT) 2022-2025 Collective Agreement sections 35 and 36B.

Applications

Application packages should be submitted by email:

Dr. Ali Taleb
Dean, Faculty of Business
University of New Brunswick Saint John
E-mail: deanofbusiness@unb.ca

Applications should include:

- a cover letter
- an up-to-date curriculum vitae
- evidence of teaching effectiveness
- a brief research statement
- a brief teaching philosophy
- a job market paper
- the names and contact information of three academic references. Before inviting any candidates to interviews, the candidates will be asked to have the three contacts submit formal letters of reference on their behalf.

Short-listed candidates will be required to provide satisfactory proof of credentials including appropriately certified translations of credentials into English, as applicable.

The University of New Brunswick is committed to employment equity and fostering diversity within our community and developing an inclusive workplace that reflects the richness of the broader community that we serve. The University welcomes and encourages applications from all qualified individuals who will help us achieve our goals, including women, visible minorities, Aboriginal persons, persons with disabilities, persons of any sexual orientation, gender identity or gender expression. Preference will be given to Canadian citizens and permanent residents of Canada