The quote "People grow through experience if they meet life honestly and courageously.

This is how character is built", is sending a message that you can become a better person if you take what you have learned and use that experience to go forth in life.

Honesty and courage are two important characteristics we need in order to deal with life's daily challenges.

Without honesty relationships would not be real. Furthermore, having courage has many purposes such as: allowing ourselves to do what we really want, standing up to turmoil, and believing in ourselves. Courage can allow a person to find success. The old adage "Never, never, never give up", is about having the courage to keep trying even when there are obstacles in your way.

Personally I feel that my character has been shaped through these life lessons. For example: I was offered a new job
